GUARD AGAINST BURGLARY & FIRE

"Controllor Systems" is an attractive wireless, solid-state security system that protects your home and/or business against burglary and fire around the clock. Can stand guard at each door and window. System is easy to relocate. There's no ugly wiring, as unit is activated by radio transmitters. And, a "Controllor System" is surprisingly inexpensive.

MODEL 510

Ask your security dealer/installer for a free demonstration and estimate. Or write us for more information.

 Vibrator Transmitter. Sensor activates electronic siren on breakage of glass. Test/Panic button with L.E.D. monitors battery.	 Emergency Signal. Electronic siren is activated as owner depresses button.	 Door Transmitter. Upon entry electronic siren sounds instantaneously or up to 45 seconds, per adjustment. However, turns lighting on immediately.	 Window Transmitter. Window opens and electronic siren sounds. Drapes often conceal the transmitter installation.

TWO NEW SECURITY BOOKS

1 CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION SOURCES: PUBLIC & PRIVATE by John M. Carroll

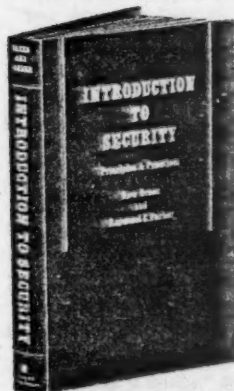

A unique, behind-the-scenes guide to the confidential personal information in public and private records. Reveals how the file keepers collect information (from Retail Credit Co. to the FBI), what data is on record, who has access to it, where and how you can find the information to identify the unknown person.

John M. Carroll, Professor of Computer Science at the University of Western Ontario and a specialist in design of information systems, has an extensive background in security, including 8 years with the Naval Security Group. During 1971-72 he was chief investigator for the Privacy and Computers Task Force.

2 INTRODUCTION TO SECURITY by Gion Green and Raymond C. Farber

A comprehensive introduction to the history scope and functions of security. Details the basic principles of physical security, internal theft prevention, defensive systems and fire protection, with an overview of career opportunities in security for business and industry, and in such specific areas as retail, cargo, hospital and computer security.

Raymond C. Farber has been an internationally recognized leader in the advancement of professionalism in security since 1964, when he founded Security World magazine. He is also publisher of SDM magazine and a major list of security books, and founder of the International Security Conference.

Gion Green's first orientation to security came as a major in the regular U.S. Marine Corps, with assignments in legal investigation. He has been a consultant to business and industry; owner of his own management consulting firm; an executive with two major T.V. networks; and a published author and seminar lecturer on security subjects.

REPORT

THE REPORT OF THE
COMMISSIONER OF THE BUREAU OF THE CENSUS

The report of the Commissioner of the Bureau of the Census, for the year 1900, is a valuable contribution to the knowledge of the population of the United States. It contains a detailed account of the results of the census, and is a valuable source of information for the study of the history and development of the country. The report is divided into several parts, each dealing with a different aspect of the census. The first part, entitled "General Statistics," contains a summary of the results of the census, and is followed by a series of tables giving the population of the various States and Territories. The second part, entitled "Detailed Statistics," contains a more complete account of the results of the census, and is followed by a series of tables giving the population of the various counties and cities. The third part, entitled "Special Statistics," contains a series of tables giving the population of the various occupations and professions. The fourth part, entitled "Miscellaneous Statistics," contains a series of tables giving the population of the various religious denominations and ethnic groups. The report is a valuable source of information for the study of the history and development of the country, and is a valuable contribution to the knowledge of the population of the United States.

The report is divided into several parts, each dealing with a different aspect of the census. The first part, entitled "General Statistics," contains a summary of the results of the census, and is followed by a series of tables giving the population of the various States and Territories. The second part, entitled "Detailed Statistics," contains a more complete account of the results of the census, and is followed by a series of tables giving the population of the various counties and cities. The third part, entitled "Special Statistics," contains a series of tables giving the population of the various occupations and professions. The fourth part, entitled "Miscellaneous Statistics," contains a series of tables giving the population of the various religious denominations and ethnic groups. The report is a valuable source of information for the study of the history and development of the country, and is a valuable contribution to the knowledge of the population of the United States.
